

ARTFORUM

September 9, 2019

By Editors

Amira Gad Joins Lehmann Maupin as Artistic Director, Kasmin Now Represents Ali Banisadr and More

Artist Tavares Strachan has pledged to give proceeds from his current exhibition “Smalls (from Hidden Histories series)” at the SFA Advisory in New York to Hurricane Dorian relief efforts. According to Artnews, Strachan will donate 10 percent of the revenue made from artworks and 20 percent of the sales from clothing to two organizations: Direct Relief and World Central Kitchen.

Hurricane Dorian is the strongest hurricane to hit the Bahamas on record. CNN reports that the category five storm killed at least forty-three people and displaced more than seventy thousand. The Pérez Art Museum Miami (PAMM), in collaboration with the city of Miami and Food for The Poor, is also spearheading efforts to help those affected by the hurricane. The institution is collecting non-perishable food items as well as first-aid and hygiene kits and other supplies.

“Our neighbors in the Bahamas were hit hard by Hurricane Dorian, and it is our duty as an institution at the crossroads of the Americas to help those affected by this devastation,” said PAMM Director Franklin Sirmans. “PAMM is dedicated to serving the community, and I am proud that the Miami area can come together to show our support for the Bahamas.”